LOCAL MATTER.

E. C. WOODSON, City Editor.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Several tracts of land were sold at the Court House door yesterday by Sheriff Lee.In our report yesterday, of Mr. Sleppey's speech, our types made us say: Noble old State, the home of the heroic Pickett. It should have been Pender.One more on "old probability," he said cloudy weather in the South Atlantic States, with areas of rain north of Maryland for Monday. It rained here like blazes.COMMITEEES who do not attend the meetings of their bodies should resign so that their places may be filled with those who will act.An old "Zip Coon," a pet of the Bollingbrook Fire Company, sat upon the engine yesterday during the parade, seemingly as much at home as if he was in the swamp of "No bottom" at Grasso's pond in Warren county.By reference to advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the sale of the land in Warren county, advertised by Chas. W. Spruill, Agent, has been postponed until the second of November. This land is valuable, and parties wishing to purchase should examine.In our report of police arrests yesterday, we stated that Messrs. Weir and Rogers were arrested for fighting, such was not the case. These gentlemen only only officiated as peace officers and prevented another fight that was on the tap. We saw it through the wrong light—beg pardon, gentlemen."Complimentary to the gentlemen of the News," that's what is said, and pasted on a bottle. The next words were "from Messrs. Gill, Grocers and Liquors dealers, Wilmington street," showing that the News is as first-class dealers in pure old rum, we went for it and found it O. K. Thanks, gentlemen, do so again.A GREAT TUMBLE IN EGGS, BUTTER, &c.—On yesterday one of our country cousins, accompanied by his wife, three grown daughters, a half grown son, two dogs and a small bull, visited our city for the double purpose of seeing the parade of the Fire Companies, and disposing of a lot of eggs, chickens, dried fruit, butter, honey, soft soap and grapes.As they passed up Fayetteville street, our attention was called to a scene only to be witnessed in a life time, and never forgotten. Though to the poor man a great loss, it was nevertheless a source of much merriment to those who were fortunate enough to witness it. The aforesaid small bull, with his back and tail well matted with cockle burrs, was driven by the youth to a little cart, containing the above mentioned sundry articles for the Raleigh market. The old gentleman walked carefully beside the cart and held the ribbons over back, who could only be persuaded by the street by the frequent application of a six foot birch in the hands of the youth. This progressed smoothly until they met the band of music and the fire engines in front of the Yarborough House. Then, as if by magic, the bull whirled on his feet and made for a pace that made our head quiver to behold, and would have put to hush Dexter or any other trotter. The old man being lame and infirm, was soon dragged to the ground by the surlly trotter, but showed game to the last, and never let go his hold of the reigns. How could he, when the bull screamed at the top of his voice, "hold him, daddy, by G—d, hold him."The poor woman and girls looked on in breathless silence, with eyes fixed on the scene, and not a word uttered either, until the young man tried to get out; the cart body, butter, eggs, soap, grapes, &c., &c., all in one mass of ruin, and then the old lady, who seemed to have more tongue than beauty, gave vent to her pent up feelings, and such a cussing of music, firemen, unbroken bulls, and things and people in general, we have never heard.The girls only cried and said, "Daddy, we told you not to drive Buck to town, and not to take Mrs. Brown's things to sell." Seeing the state of affairs, we went out as a comforter and brought to our command: "He that hath much love," "A bad beginning never makes a good ending," "What can't be cured must be endured," "Never grieve over spilt milk." But our kindness was only met by abuse, and we left.Moral—Never try to combine business with pleasure. It can't be did.

THE FIREMAN'S JUBILEE—ARRIVAL OF THE "HORNETS"—THEIR RECEPTION —SPEECHES AT METROPOLITAN HALL.—In accordance with the programme, the firemen formed at their respective Halls at 5 1/2 A. M., yesterday, and proceeded to the National Hotel, where they were joined by the visiting Petersburg firemen, and the line of march was taken for the Central Depot to await the arrival of the "Hornets" of Charlotte. The train arrived in due time, and with it the expected visitors. The "Rescues" of this city promptly went forward and unshipped the steamer and reel of the "Hornets," after which the line of march was formed, and preceded by the Citizens' Brass band of Raleigh, proceeded to Metropolitan Hall, where after partaking of a few liquid refreshments, the Charlotte firemen were welcomed by Capt. W. H. F. Lee, on the part of the citizens, in the absence of the Mayor, who said:

Gentlemen of the Hornet Fire Company, sons of the Sires of '73! Welcome!
It becomes my pleasant duty in behalf of the Mayor, the City Council, the Police and every department of our city government, to bid you most heartily welcome to our City of Oaks.

I had the honor, gentlemen, formerly, while resident at Charlotte, of being a member of your Company—I ran with your machine. You may have no names of battles won or records of other great deeds emblazoned on your banners, but one act of yours will stand out in bold relief throughout all time. You did a big thing then, gentlemen. You elected me 3rd Assistant Engineer, my highest qualification for that position being, that I neither knew how to "load or shoot" your steamer. Thanks to my not being allowed to attempt it, you now all have your heads on your shoulders, and are living, moving and having your being. But a truce to joking.
You breathe in your western home an atmosphere redolent with the fragrant sweetness of liberty.

In your first essayed the nursing of American freedom. Charlotte was his birthplace. Near the public square there, twenty five North Carolina patriots threw the glove of challenge at the feet of the most powerful monarch of the globe. This was the forerunner, the forerunner, and the signal for that mighty storm of open and decided rebellion which soon after burst, in all its force and fury, upon England's assaulted potentate and his defeated soldiers. This was the kindling of that flaming desire for freedom, which, enveloping our mountain barriers, and speeding, extended its fiery tongue North, South, East and West, and which in its subsidence, left our country in the enjoyment of liberty, peace and prosperity. These were your fathers, this your ancestry, and this deponent knows you are not degenerate sons. We, as well as yourselves, are proud of your lineage. We claim it in common with you as our own and the nation's. With these proud memories in common, with the same desires, hopes and aspirations; with a common interest, bound together by ties of kinship and business relationship, ours will also be a common destiny. Again, gentlemen, welcome.

I have the honor of introducing Capt.
T. F. Lee, who will address you in behalf of the Fire Department.

Capt. T. F. Lee next came forward and said:

Gentlemen of the Charlotte Hornet Fire Company:

In the absence of the Hon. Kemp P. Battle, one of North Carolina's gifted sons, who had been designated to welcome you here this morning, but who is unavoidably absent, the duty of extending a cordial greeting to my brother Firemen of Charlotte devolves upon me.

Brother Firemen: In the name of the inhabitants of the "City of Oaks," we welcome you to their generous hospitality. We welcome you to happy smiles from our fairest ladies, to hearty rejoinders rendered sacred by the friendship of the Capitol of a great State, whose honor is a common heritage and whose fame is inseparably connected with the place of your present residence.
The name of Mecklenburg is like that of Philadelphia, "not born to die." From your county was the first Declaration of Independence made, and from thence, as from a perennial fountain, has spread the silver streams of American liberty! Gentlemen are to that "manly hero!" and for the sake of the heroes who have passed before you, not less than for the sake of yourselves, we greet you to day and welcome you with all our hearts, minds and bodies. Your name indicates the honor of the free city which you represent. Your fathers were Hornets in the front of an invading army, and of them it was declared by Tarleton, that he held the hottest nest in all the rebellious Colonies. In the hour which tried men's souls, and tested the metal of heroes.

Gentlemen, we have with us now an other company of brethren from the historic city of Petersburg. I know they allow to each of you a hearty welcome. Ask of them, if during a few hours sojourn in our city, if they have not become as one and part and parcel of us in their short stay in this city?
And therefore, we feel that longer delay in this reception would only keep us apart formally, when we are to meet in social and the happiest of freemasonry.
We are brethren all. The gates of this city are open. The good things are prepared. We shall here make a feast, at which all of us will feel that it was good for us to be there, and which will cement and bind three flourishing cities together in the strongest bonds of friendship, and form perhaps, some of the strongest ties of life.

At the conclusion of Capt. Lee's speech, Capt. Trezvant, of the Hornets, introduced J. C. Mills, of Charlotte, who said:

who said:

Old Collin Green, the noted restaurant keeper, has located in Raleigh Woodson is such a big eater, old Pe-per found it necessary to increase his number of cooks.—Warrenton Gazette.

We welcome with great satisfaction the "old Corporal," as he is usually termed, to the city of "Oaks." We don't mean to reflect upon the many good cooks in the city, but we have no hesitation in declaring that the Corporal is the best cook in this or any other State. In his preparation of oysters he has a style peculiar to himself, that no other cook has ever known, and as a soupist and a stakist, he stands without an equal. The "Corporal," though, is not at Pepper's, but runs a restaurant on Cabarrus street, near the Central Depot. Passengers from the west, who have only ten minutes at the depot, would do well to note the Corporal's place of business.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.
Dr. C. Tate Murphy, of Sampson, is at the Yarrowhouse House. He is enroute to the West on an inspection tour of the various public institutions, jails, almshouses, &c.

J. C. Mills, Esq., a promising lawyer of Charlotte, is a member of the "Hornet" Steam Fire Company, and is with them on their visit to this city.

E. W. Pout, of Johnston, Greeley elector for the State at large, is in the city.

Capt. Geo. A. Eanes, of the Petersburg & Weldon Railroad, is at the National.

Who SAYS AND HOW MUCH?—We are authorized to say if that any Republicans of this city think that Indiana will vote for the Republicans to-day and are willing to back their money, they can be accommodated for a small amount. Don't all speak at once.

NOON DISPATCHES.

The Elections.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.

The day is delightful and the voting here is progressing quietly. Advances from Connecticut indicate Liberal gains in the town elections. The Liberal Mayor elected in Hartford by one hundred and fifty eight plurality over the regular Republican nominee and independent Democrat.

Twenty-five negroes have been arrested in Newark, N. J., charged with false registration in one Ward.

New York, Oct. 8.

The Tribune Philadelphia special says that both sides are confident. Each claim twenty thousand majority.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.

A full vote is being polled, and the election is progressing very quietly.
Under the new law all taverns are closed.
The U. S. Marshal has 800 special officers on duty, distributed among wards where trouble is likely to occur.
Up to noon no serious disturbance is reported.

Reddy Blacksmith, from New York, has been arrested after voting three times, and locked up for a further hearing. Fifteen tax receipts were found on him.

In the fourth ward, the strongest Democratic ward in the city, the hourly announcement of votes shows that more Republican votes have been cast than usually polled during the whole day.

Smuggling Fire Works.

New York, Oct. 8.

On Saturday, while the steamers Charleston and South Carolina were being loaded, one of the cases gaped open and it was discovered to contain fire works. The Custom House officers thereupon made examination and found several cases containing fire works of every description and other manufacturies from gun powder. These cases were invoiced as fancy goods, and were accordingly seized.

It is thought that in this way the steamer Bienville was set on fire, as shippers of these goods have been forwarding by Southern vessels for some time.

A Riot at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.

A riot occurred in this vicinity last night between a negro meeting and a Liberal torch-light procession. Origin obscure. Several white men shot, and several negroes knocked down. The negroes took possession of the armory, and guarded all approaches. At midnight the police closed in on the armory.
At half past one all was quiet. The whites receded, and the negroes evacuated the armory.

The Georgia Election Returns.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 8.

The Morning News has received official returns from one hundred and three counties, giving Smith a majority of fifty thousand six hundred and seventy one. There are thirty two counties to hear from, which will doubtless swell the majority to sixty thousand.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS—AND THEIR BEARING ON THE PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST.

Our midnight dispatches will probably give us enough election returns for this issue of our paper for our readers to determine pretty correctly the result of yesterday's voting.

From the immense frauds which have been practiced in Philadelphia—from the unprecedented increase of nearly fifty thousand voters in the registration of that city since the last election—from the opportunities which the inspectors and poll holders, who are Radical, will have to commit every species of cheating—from importation of O'Brien's repeaters from New York to vote for the Radical ticket—from these and various other causes, it is not improbable that the popular sentiment in Pennsylvania has been overcome and Hartman counted in as Governor of the State.

We say this is not improbable, but we have good reason for believing that every precautionary measure was taken by the Liberals and Democrats to checkmate the plans of their wily opponents, and we sincerely trust their audacious and shameless plots were detected and exposed.

It seems to be conceded that if the Republicans were yesterday defeated in the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, Horace Greeley would have plain sailing in his course to the White House, and that it will be impossible for Grant to make even a respectable fight.

While, therefore, our prospects are good in all three of these States, yet if we succeed in carrying either one of them, the chances would then be decidedly in favor of Greeley's success in November.

Take for instance the State of Indiana, which casts eleven votes in the Electoral College. If we carried Indiana yesterday against Morton's influence—and he is the ablest and most astute manipulator of the Grant Ring of politicians—we will be successful in several other States which have been set down as doubtful in November. We think we can demonstrate that our success yesterday in Indiana will give us very strong hopes for the election of Greeley.

Let us first calculate the chances of the electoral vote in the Southern States. For Greeley we can set down as almost certain:

Alabama	10
Arkansas	4
Florida	4
Georgia	11
Kentucky	8
Louisiana	8
Mississippi	8
South Carolina	8
Tennessee	11
Virginia	11
West Virginia	5

Greeley would then lack 75 votes of an election, which must be obtained in the North. The following may be regarded as safe for him:

New York	35
New Jersey	3
Delaware	3
California	6
Indiana	11

The sixty-four Northern votes added to the one hundred and nine Southern votes make one hundred and seventy-three. Greeley would need only eleven more votes to secure a majority of the electoral college.

There are several doubtful States, in some of which Greeley's chances are considered better than Grant's. We may mention among these Connecticut, where the Liberals are very sanguine, and New Hampshire, where the Democrats have a Lieutenant Governor, we believe. These two States could give the eleven votes, the number required to elect Greeley. There are Nevada, Oregon, Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin, and several other Western States, where the Liberal cause has made much headway, which have been left out of the calculation, and it is almost certain that one or more will vote against Grant.

Upon a survey of the field, therefore, we conclude that if the Liberals failed to carry Pennsylvania and Ohio yesterday, but carried Indiana, then there will not only be a warm and hotly contested fight, but Greeley would still have the inside track—with the chances decidedly in his favor.

As the canvass progresses from now till the 15th of November, there is no telling what influences may be brought to bear to aid or oppose, nor what burdens may fall upon the shoulders of the Administration to bear it down to defeat and condemnation.

No one can predict what a day may bring forth in politics. Therefore let us be of good cheer until the time for despondency comes.

STRAIGHT OUTS.

It is a little remarkable that men who have all their lives despised the word Democrat as synonymous with everything that is base and dishonorable, now hug to their bosoms such individuals as Blanton Duncan, and sing paeans to the memories of Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson.

It is a little amusing to find such men as John Quincy Adams, for instance, claiming to be a simon-pure Democrat, and refusing to stand by the nominees of the party because they do not represent the ancient faith of the Democratic creed, when such men as Hendricks and George H. Pendleton, consistent, unwavering and devoted Democrats, see nothing in the "Greeley co-alition" inconsistent with their political integrity and honor. Who is the proper leader of the Democratic party of the United States, Pendleton or Adams?

Some of the delegates at Louisville refused to vote for Adams as the Straight Out Democratic candidate for the Presidency on the ground that he never was a true Democrat.

Mr. Yates, of the Charlotte Democrat, makes a good point against Alex. H. Stephens, and Robert Toombs of Georgia, who are endeavoring to disorganize the Democrats of that State by leading them into swamps and quagmires, by the light of Blanton Duncan's will of the wisp political lamp. The Democrat says truly that "neither Stephens or Toombs ever had any right to speak for Straight-Out Democrats, as they were both old line Whigs before the war and hated Democrats with all their might. Others of the same stripe are styling themselves Straight-Out Democrats but opposed to Greeley, who never knew or endorsed the first principle of Democracy."

Who has the best right to teach the Democratic party their duty in North Carolina—W. J. Yates or John A. Fagg—the one a life long and ardent Democrat—the other, once a Henry Clay Whig, but who abandoned his party and afterwards joined the Democrats, and is now clinging on the skirts of Blanton Duncan?

Two young men of Petersburg, Va., Messrs. Samuel W. Price and Geo. W. Kruse, have commenced studying for the ministry at the Baptist Seminary at Richmond.

Brooklyn, Oct. 4, 1872.

THE LATE RIOT IN PITT.

The Radicals are attempting to make capital out of two personal disturbances that have recently taken place in Pitt County.

We gave yesterday in our local column an account of the arrest and trial of some thirty citizens of that County at Goldsboro, before United States Commissioner Robinson. The defendants, as stated in our account, were all discharged.

We have the letter of one Calvin Cox, of Greenville, to Marshal Carrow—which we will publish to-morrow for the edification of our readers.

SLOCUM VERSUS BURNSIDE.

We copy below the caustic and severe letter of Gen. H. W. Slocum against Gen. A. E. Burnside, "the hero of Fredericksburg."

Gen. Burnside figured conspicuously in the Grant Soldiers Convention at Pittsburg.

It will be seen that Gen. Slocum disputes Burnside's right to speak for the soldiers of the Union army. Gen. Slocum says that the officers who take the most active part in politics are the most unsuccessful on the field of battle.

Gen. Slocum deals the redoubtable Burnside some heavy blows. His allusion to Burnside's disaster at Fredericksburg is caustic, and must recall very unpleasant reminiscences to the mind of that Radical officer.

General A. E. Burnside—
DEAR GENERAL: I have read with great interest your address to the soldiers and sailors who served in the Union army and navy during the late war. As I was one of the soldiers alluded to, I trust you will not be displeased if I say a few words in response thereto. You tell us that you and others, as our representatives, met at Pittsburg and adopted a series of resolutions which we have already seen. You complain that Mr. Greeley has expressed the opinion that you assembled for political purposes, and that you hoped to accomplish these purposes, by reviving the animosities and hatreds engendered by the war. You further say that these remarks of Mr. Greeley and his entire lack of courtesy towards the soldiers and sailors serve to confirm you in the opinion that he is quite unfit to be trusted in any position where loyalty to his Government, a just regard to the feelings of others, and an abnegation of self is required. You then proceed to inform us in conclusion, that it only remains for you to urge us to organize in harmony with the regular Republican organizations, and do all in our power to re-elect General Grant. The first thought that occurred to my mind on reading this address was, "What was there in General Burnside's military career that justifies him in telling the hundreds of thousands of soldiers who served during the late war what they should do in time of peace? Did anything occur at the first Bull Run, at Roanoke Island, at Fredericksburg, at East Tennessee, or at the mine explosion in front of Petersburg, which entitles him to assume command of all of us in time of peace, and order us to the front to fight in behalf of a political party? My second thought was: "Is it creditable to the soldiers of the late war that one of their number should be permitted to spread broadcast over the land a document charging Hon. Greeley with disloyalty? The truth of the saying that the "pen is mightier than the sword" is coming year by year to be more generally acknowledged. In view of the election of General Grant to the Presidency, and of the fact that he is a candidate for re-election, there are probably some men in the country who doubt its truth. If, however, we were to add to the saying the proviso that the pen should be handled by a Greeley and the sword by a Burnside, all doubts would disappear. You and I, General, know full well that while we were in the field fighting for the Union, Mr. Greeley was wielding in behalf of the same cause a weapon far more powerful than those used by either of us. We know, too, that long after we had sheathed our swords he kept up the fight, and continued it until every object was accomplished for which even the most ardent abolitionist had prayed. He did not cease the fight until the Union was restored, slavery abolished, the blacks enfranchised, and all their civil and political rights solemnly guaranteed to them by amendments to the Constitution. And yet, General, you have the hardihood of charging this man with disloyalty, and are uttering this foolish charge in your assumed capacity as the representative of the Union soldiers of the land. You say he has been guilty of a lack of courtesy towards us. In my judgment, any man who eight years after the close of a bloody civil war will ask soldiers to assemble in convention with a view of controlling their action in political matters is a demagogue unworthy of courtesy at the hands of Mr. Greeley or any other person. When at the close of the war we laid down our arms, we became citizens, and we have no interest to day except those we have in common with all other citizens. Why, then, should any one ask us, in our character as soldiers, to assemble in political bodies? Why should you extend to such an invitation, unless it is with the hope that from your former connection with us in the army you may be able to influence our judgments upon matters of public policy in a time of peace? Do you not think, General, that these assemblies of soldiers for the purpose of perfecting our elections have become slightly nauseating to the public? Did it ever occur to you that, as the officers most active in work of this nature were most unsuccessful in the field? Permit me, in conclusion, to say that I do not believe in the address at Pittsburg, or in the sentiments of the address to which I have alluded, you are in any sense of the word a representative of the real soldiers of the army. On the contrary, I feel that very many of them unite with me in the hope that this political campaign, in which you seem to have assumed the position of commander, may prove to you and to the troops of your command another Fredericksburg. Very truly yours, H. W. SLOCUM.

Brooklyn, Oct. 4, 1872.

AN INDIANA BET.—The Terre Haute Journal says: A veteran Radical and a stubborn Democrat have bet a half-bushel of hickory nuts on the result of the county election. The loser is to gather the nuts with his own hands in the presence of the victorious party.

STATE MATTERS.

There was frost in Gaston county on Wednesday morning last.

The Goldsboro Savings Bank is in successful operation.

BRUNSWICK Superior Court, Judge Russell presiding, convened on Monday.

WILMINGTON is to have another iron front, corner of Front and Princess Streets.

The cotton mill known as Tale's Factory, 10 miles from Charlotte, is to be started again this week.

The Hillsboro Military Academy is being fitted up for a school by Paul Cameron, Esq.

The Rev. R. H. Whitaker, editor of the Friend of Temperance, was in Lumberton last week.

The freight on a barrel of sweet potatoes from Wilmington to Boston is only $10.50 in advance.

The ladies of Goldsboro are making arrangements to devise suitable clothing for the poor children during the coming winter.

The Southern Home has had a bolt of cotton sent from Gaston containing sixteen locks. That paper says let Edgewood be heard from.

The Jewish citizens of Wilmington are making grand preparations for their annual Prussian Ball, which is to come off in that city on the 17th inst.

Twelve hundred and twenty-five bales of cotton were sold in the Charlotte market last week, prices on Saturday ranging from 16 1/2 to 17c.

The Southern Home says that prominent merchants of Charlotte assert that the trade for the last three weeks in that city has been brisker than in any previous history of the town.

The Charlotte Observer suggests that a bench be reserved for the Mecklenburg Straight-Outs at the Alexandria mass-meeting. The Southern Home says that a split-bottom chair will be simply sufficient.

The Lumberton Rehearsal learns "from passengers" on the underground railroad that the outlaws Stephen Lowrey and Andrew Strong have outwitted the "responsible" editor of the Wilmington Star, and have offered a reward of one five cent Confederate postage stamp for his apprehension and delivery to them.

The Southern Home says: "Charlotte has never, in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, been afflicted with daylight mosquitoes until this year. They are as tireless as Grant's thieves and rob the people of their blood in broad daylight as readily as at night, and have as little shame as a whiskey sneller or a dirty marshal."

The Rehearsal says: "We have had no news from the outlaws for some weeks past. Since the killing of Tom Lowrey only two members of the 'gang' Stephen Lowrey and Andrew Strong remain, and they are confined pretty closely to the swamps through a whole some dread of Mr. Wishart and his gallant little band of pursuers. The capture of these remaining villains and the final restoration of peace and order is but a question of time."

THOMAS GILCHRIST, charged with the killing of Wm. B. McClellan, in Robeson county, several weeks ago, and who has been in the custody of the Sheriff of the county, has been unconditionally released under a writ of habeas corpus heard before Judge Russell, upon the ground that he had reason to believe that his life was about to be taken by the deceased, and that it was therefore excusable homicide. So we learn from the Journal.

DEATH SENTENCE IN WASHINGTON.—The Baltimore Sun's correspondent says:

At the Criminal Court to day Geo. W. Jenkins, convicted of the murder of his wife, yesterday was sentenced to be hung on Thursday, the 21st of October. The criminal showed no signs of discomposure, and on his way to the jail, in reply to a little boy, who seeing the crowd, asked, "What's the matter?" said, with apparent ease, taking his cigar from his mouth, "No matter at all, only a fresh cut." Much comment was excited by the fact that the court has fixed Thursday instead of the immemorial Friday as the day of execution.

Rafferty, the murderer of officer O'Meara, was to have been hanged in Chicago last Friday, but the Supreme Court having granted a writ of super-seedeas the sentence was not executed. John Barclay, who was hanged for murder at Columbus, Friday, admitted his guilt, said he was prepared to die, and advised all to beware of intoxicating liquors, which had placed him on a murderer's scaffold.

Washington never made a speech. In the zenith of his fame he once attempted it, failed, and gave it up, confused and abashed.—Real Exchange.

How very like Washington is Grant! But Washington could not tell a lie any more than he could make a speech. Comparisons are odious.—Democratic Exchange.

An abstract of the agricultural returns of Great Britain issued by the London Board of Trade, indicates that above nine million acres have been cropped this year, namely: 3 1/2 millions with wheat, 7 1/2 millions with barley, nearly 2 1/2 millions with oats, and over a half a million with potatoes.

Late news from Alabama is encouraging to Greeley and Brown. The only Democratic paper in the State that refused to support the Baltimore nominees has now come out for Greeley, and will fight to the end of the canvass for the cause of amnesty and reconciliation.

General Jubal Early has written a letter for publication, in which he advocates the election of Greeley and Brown, and is very severe upon the "Confederate renegades" whom he characterizes as the worst of the whole lot of the Radical party of the State.

Ex President Jefferson Davis was in Richmond, Va., on Saturday last.

Miss Jean Hosmer played Lucretia Borgia in Richmond, Va., last week.

The Conservatives in Virginia are having grand rallies in every section.

The Escorial—Its History, Characteristics, and Associations.

The world has already had cause to deplore the injury by fire, within the last few months, of two memorable structures, namely: Warwick Castle and the Cathedral of Canterbury—not to mention the destruction of architectural landmarks in Paris brought about by the Commune. To this list must now be added that noble and venerable pile known as the Escorial, or, as the Spaniards term it, the Real Felipe, which, according to cable despatches, has fallen, in a large part, a victim to the flames, ignited by lightning, together with most of its treasures in art and antiquity. The Escorial, which is at once a palace, a monastery, and a mausoleum of the Spanish kings, is situated near the town of Escorial de Abajo, about twenty-five miles northwest of Madrid. It is, or was, a square tower two hundred feet high flanking each of the four corners of the building, thus representing a gridiron reversed, the towers being the upturned feet. A wing four hundred and sixty feet long represents the handle of the implement and contains the royal apartments, the Escorial being the usual residence of the court in autumn. The average height of the walls is sixty feet. The general aspect of the Escorial, of which the Doric is the prevailing style of architecture, is that of a freshly erected pile, rising from the midst of plantations, and more imposing from its magnitude than from its grandeur of architecture. The material of which it is built is white stone, spotted with gray.

It is in the Escorial that the remains of all the Spanish sovereigns since Charles V. repose in niches, one above the other. They are buried in a mausoleum, built by Philip IV., 50 feet in diameter, with walls of jasper and black marble. Among the treasures of art and learning contained in the Escorial are several fine paintings, which adorn the magnificent church in the splendid edifice, and was built by Philip II. in fulfillment of a vow made by that monarch that he would build the most magnificent monastery in the world, if St. Laurence would give him victory over the French in the battle of St. Quentin, in 1557. St. Laurence suffered martyrdom by being broiled on a gridiron, and in testimony of this event the Escorial was constructed in the form of a gridiron, with handle and bars complete. The foundation was commenced in April, 1553, but 21 years elapsed before the structure was completed at a cost of $15,000,000 in our money. The total length of the building is seven hundred and forty feet north and south and five hundred and eighty feet east and west. The body of the gridiron is represented by seventeen ranges of buildings, crossing each other at right angles, forming a parallelogram enclosing twenty-four courts, with building: Buenavento Cellini's marble "Christ," presented to Philip by the Duke of Tuscany, and brought from Barcelona on men's shoulders; two picture galleries in the royal apartments, which contained many chefs d'œuvre, and a library, which is especially rich in valuable Greek, Hebrew, and Arabic manuscripts. There are also several noteworthy statues in the church, and an immense collection of saintly relics, amassed by the founder of the palace.

Some general idea of the vast proportions of this great building may be formed from the fact that there are 4,000 windows, looking outward and inward, a multitude of cells, apartments, halls, refectories, infirmaries, &c. It has also 14 gates and 86 fountains. The church, which is built in general imitation of St. Peter's at Rome, in the form of a Greek cross, contains 40 chapels, with their altars, and is 374 feet long, 230 broad, divided into seven aisles, paved with black marble and floored by the low rising of 320 feet from the floor. The grand altar, 90 feet high and 50 feet wide, is composed of jasper and gilded bronze. One of the interesting features of the building is a finely sculptured portal which opens twice for every Spanish monarch—once when he is carried through it after his birth, and once after his death, when three nobles and three priests bear him to the tomb.

We have spoken of the Escorial as it was before the fire. As yet it is impossible to say how much of this grandeur has survived the conflagration, and how much has fallen beneath the flames. The Escorial was one of the most interesting piles among the historical buildings in Europe, and was beyond doubt, the most attractive object of contemplation to the tourist in Spain.—Washington Patriot.

It seems there was a "tremendous vote" cast in West Virginia this year. The aggregate is 81,000 against 58,000 last year.

SPECIAL FEATURES AND ADVANTAGES.

1st. No restriction on Residence or Travel.

2d. No extra charge on Lives of Females.

3d. Policies incontestable after Five Years.

4th. The Rates of Interest on the Funds of the Company are higher than those on the Funds of Companies located in other States, thus insuring larger Dividends to Policy Holders.

5th. The Directors and Officers of the Company are prominent NORTH CAROLINIANS, who are KNOWN to be men of INTEGRITY and WORTH.

6th. The Company is established on a solid and permanent basis, steps having been taken to increase the Capital Stock to $2,000,000.

7th. ALL THE FUNDS OF THE COMPANY ARE INVESTED IN THIS STATE AND "CIRCULATE AMONG OUR OWN PEOPLE." This fact should commend the Company, above all others, to North Carolinians. It is well known that hundreds of thousands of Dollars in Life Premiums are annually sent North to enrich Northern Capitalists, thus continually draining the people of immense amounts which should be kept at home. On this ground the friends of this Company are entitled to appeal to every son of the Old North State, and ask their support for this HOME INSTITUTION, which, while it offers substantial advantages to the friends of Northern Companies, helps to build up HOME INTERESTS.

IN FOUR TO TEN TENTS.

As the space of the grounds will permit this fair will be held in the city of Raleigh.
JOHN ROBINSON, Proprietor and Gen. Director.
JOHN ROBINSON, Jr., Manager.

This Gigantic Enterprise, which has been at a vast expenditure of time and money thoroughly re-organized and equipped for the present traveling season, presents the startling, Novel, Unique and Colossal Spectacle never before witnessed in the annals of amusement enterprise either in this or any other age.

TWELVE SUPERIOR SHOWS IN ONE.

All for a Single Price of Admission.

In the collection and organization of the Museum the utmost care has been taken to secure and exhibit to the public by presenting in One Vast Assemblage an accumulation of the well known and the most interesting and liberally of all other managers in America or Europe. It may be interesting for the public to understand that for nearly Two Years Mr. Robinson's numerous Shows, who are found in almost every part of the world, have been actively employed in procuring Curiosities for his Great Traveling Museum. Some of these were put on exhibition for the first time last year; but they have been largely supplemented for the present season by new acquisitions and consignments brought by almost every steamer from foreign ports which have arrived in New York for the past eight months.
As an illustration of the Indomitable Energy of the well known Proprietor of this establishment, it may be well to remark that the Exhaustless Resources of Europe, Asia, Africa and America, with the sub-visions of China, Japan, Australia, the Polar Regions, South Sea Islands, Arabia, Turkey, Spain, and Italy, the Pacific Arctic, Indian and Atlantic Oceans, together with the Red Sea and Holy Land, have all been leveled into, contributing to swell the aggregate of this single Department, which, after all, constitutes but a moiety of all that may be seen.

Twenty-Three Thousand Curiosities.

This stupendous Combination has been brought together at an actual cost to the Proprietor of more than a million of dollars, which is ten times more than was ever invested in a single Show. The curiosities of the several departments represents the choicest specimens from the realms of Zoology, Ornithology, Geology, Ichthyology, Conchology, Entomology, Anthropology, Mechanics, Numismatics, Sciences, and Art, and so classified for this Great Ex-
